Introduction

Many of the questions we ask during difficult times in our lives touch on our spiritual needs: 'Why me?', 'Why this?', 'Why now?'

The Spiritual Care Team (Chaplaincy) is here to support you whatever your beliefs or practices. You may want someone to talk to or pray things through with you.

Perhaps you need a space for reflection or need some way of marking an event with thanksgiving or tears. If you are part of a faith community we will try to make sure that an appropriate person is available for you. Our regular team includes Christians from all traditions as well as Muslims, Hindus and Buddhists. We can contact leaders from other faith groups if needed.

At Gloucestershire Royal Hospital the chapel and prayer rooms are on the ground floor of the Tower Block.

At Cheltenham General Hospital the chapel is next to the Blue Spa Café and serve a multi-faith prayer room. These are always open for your own private use as places of peace, meditation and prayer.

We can also supply appropriate resources to help you.

Most wards receive a regular visit from our team of volunteers, but a chaplain is also available should you need to speak to one.

Staff on the wards will make contact on your behalf. In cases of urgent need they can call upon a chaplain at any time of day or night.

Here for you

Chaplains are appointed by the Trust to provide spiritual, pastoral and religious care to the whole hospital community.
